

Ocean Sciences

Faculty positions in the Department of Oceanography, National Sun Yat-sen University, Kaohsiung, Taiwan, ROC.

The Department of Oceanography at the National Sun Yat-sen University (<https://ocean.nsysu.edu.tw/?Lang=en>) is looking to fill two to three tenure-track faculty positions in the areas of physical oceanography, marine biology, marine chemistry, marine geology, and other related oceanographic disciplines. The university owns and operates 800-ton New Ocean Researcher (<https://or3.nsysu.edu.tw/?Lang=en>) to support oceanographic research and teaching.

The appointment will start on August 1, 2021. The applicant must hold a Ph.D. degree in disciplines mentioned above, demonstrate his/her capability to conduct research, and preference will be given to applicants with extensive experience in sea-going field work.

The rank at the time of appointment will commensurate with experience and accomplishment. This position carries a 12-month salary plus a 1.5-month bonus at the Chinese New Year. The successful candidate is expected to teach both undergraduate and graduate (master and doctorate levels) courses and to establish his/her own research through external funding. Applications will remain open until the positions are filled, but preferential consideration will be given to applicants submitting before October 30, 2020.

Applicants should send their curriculum vitae, three recommendation letters, statement of research and teaching interests through electronic mails to:
